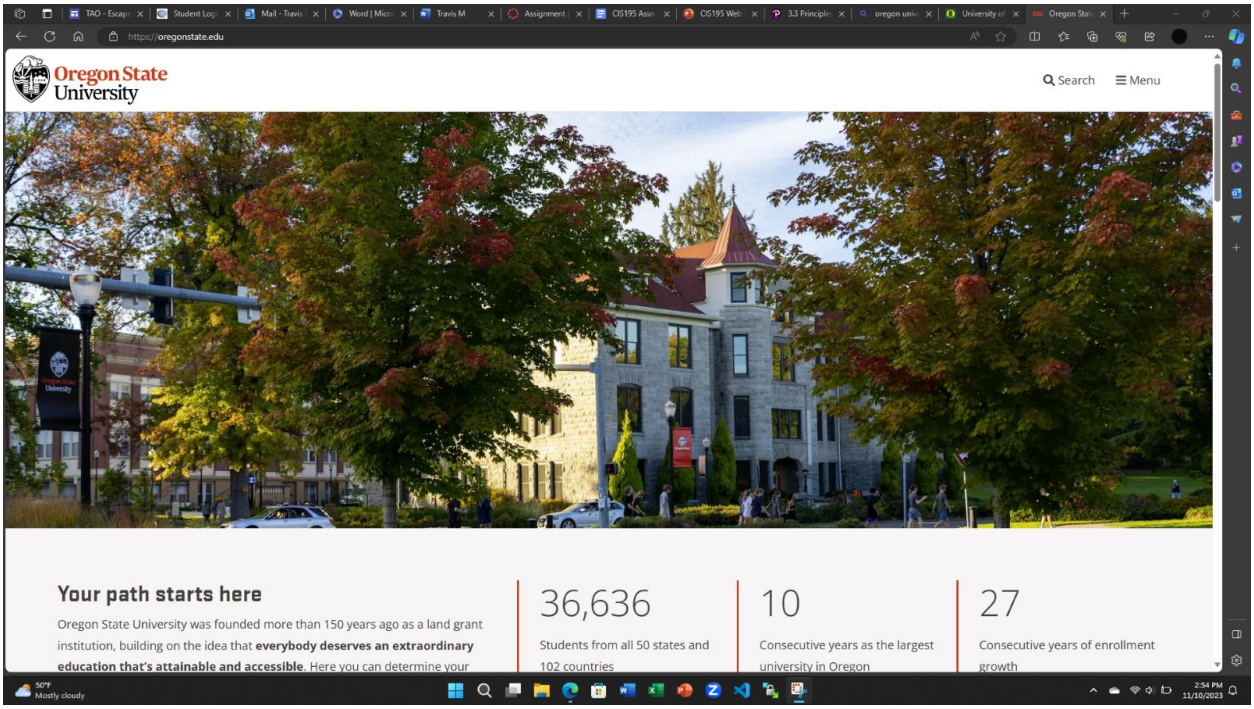
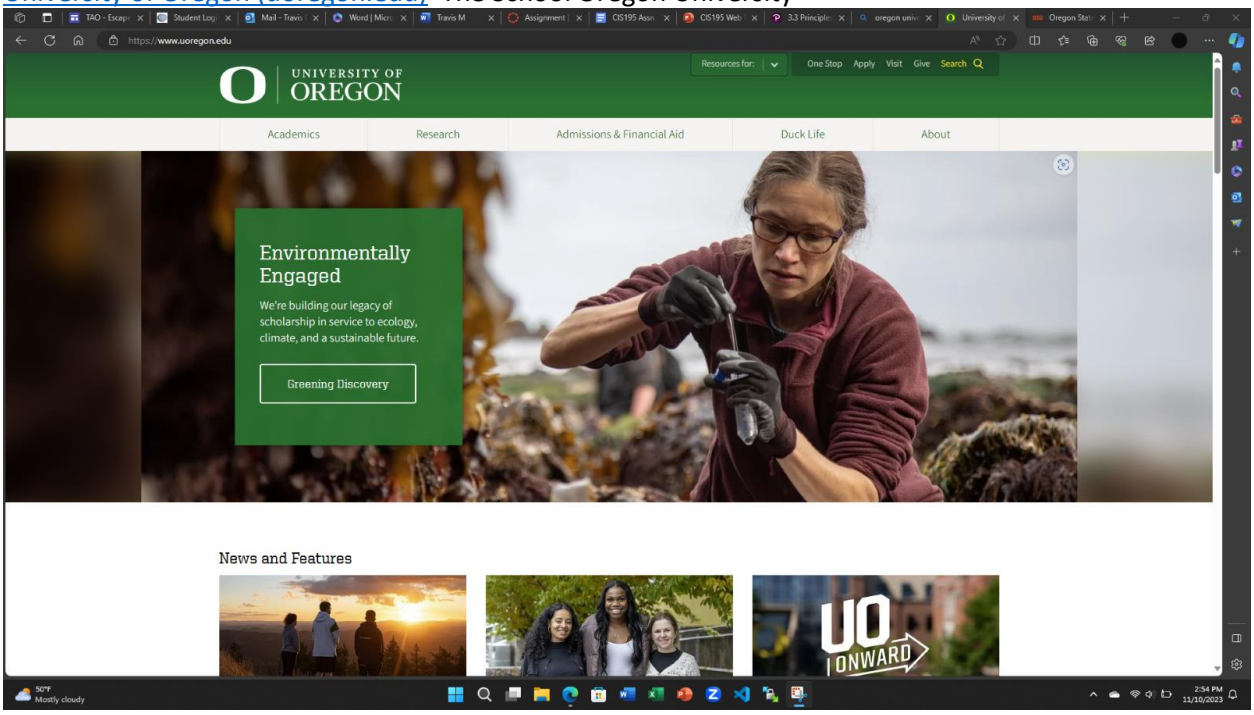
Oregon State University The School Oregon State University



University of Oregon (uoregon.edu) The School Oregon University



3. Both Sites are using “div” containers. One for a Nav, a Draw you in image, News and Features, Background info and the footer details about each organization. Oregon however has a fixed background image with “div” sliding over the top.

4. Both sites promote School background, News and Events early in the page. I would switch it and have the top degrees of study with admission/financial aid links next to them. I would arrange both sites to show links to the faculty, tutors, help and services under the top courses. Then I would fill the page with background information, school events, etc... If I am interested in a school. I would like to see the course layouts, the admissions and faculty before being distracted by photos of students, games, etc...
